TOOLS

REQUIRED:

- Electric drill with 5/16" socket.
- 7/16" Wrench or socket to tighten 1/4" bolt and lock nut.
- 3/32" Allen wrench to tighten set screws.

INSTALLATION

1. Hold your weapon up in desired area of ceiling to position barrel/butt side clearance and front to back location.
2. Examine the interior of your vehicle. If you have a crossbeam in the ceiling, you may want to screw the Sky Bar directly into this crossbeam.

Note! Do not mount in the side curtain airbag zone

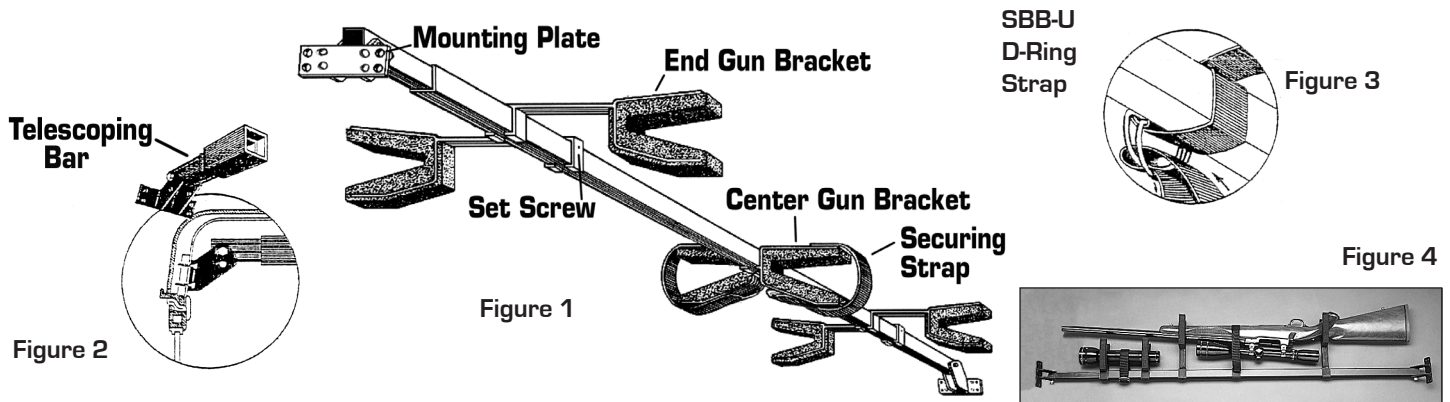

Note! The Sky Bar outer tube is 40" and the inner telescoping bar is 24". If the Sky Bar is too wide for your vehicle or you are mounting into the crossbeam, you will need to shorten the Sky Bar by cutting the proper amount from the outer tube. Do not cut the end that has the mounting hole drilled.

Note! Most vehicles have an inner steel headliner rail on both sides, just above the windows or doors. Some rails are wider than others and some have holes to reduce weight. See Figure 2. If you are mounting into the crossbeam you will need to check under the headliner for the width of the beam and use the corresponding holes on the mount plates.

3. Slide gun brackets (and optional utility brackets if used, figure 4) on the large bar and attach the mounting plates loosely to the proper bars. The mounting plates are different sizes to match the 1" outer bar and the 3/4" inner bar. See Figure 1.
4. Hold your gun rack in the ceiling at the desired location and mark 4 of the mounting plate holes above the windows or doors using chalk or any brush off marking device. To verify the headliner rail in your vehicle, pull the headliner away in the area you have marked, and use a flashlight to view the structure of the rail. Make sure there is metal to securely screw the mounting plates in the position you have chosen. You will need to use 4 screws in each plate. You may need to reposition the plate to avoid the holes in the headliner rail.

5. Remove the mounting plates from the bar. Position the mounting plates with the tabs pointing to the ceiling over your marks and mount using the self-drilling screws provided.
6. With the gun brackets still on the bar, attach the Sky Bar to the mounting plate on each side using the 1 3/4" x 1/4" bolts and nuts provided. Use the holes in the mounting plates that place the Sky-Bar as high in the ceiling as possible. Remember to put the outer bar in the wide mounting plate and the inner telescoping bar in the narrow mounting plate.
7. Put weapon(s) in gun brackets and make final adjustments by sliding brackets to the best position on your weapon. Insert and tighten the set screw on each gun bracket with an allen wrench.
8. To minimize vibration of your Sky-Bar, insert a set screw in the hole provided 8" from the telescoping end of the outer bar.
